ASIA TRAVELER . . .

WULFF SPEAKS AT RALLY

"You and Asian Youth" will be discussed Tuesday, November 6, by Russell Wulff at the WSSF rally in the auditorium. Mr. Wulff, the man who brought Mr. Masani to Sacramento College, is a native Sacramentan and a graduate of Stanford University and School of Law.

After working as a tax lawyer for the Standard Oil Co., Wulff began a year's tour of Asia, visiting India, Burma, China and the Philippines. He met Mr. Masani in Bombay, and, upon learning that Masani was planning to come to the United States, urged him to extend his visit into the Western states.

Wulff visited colleges in many parts of Asia and talked with numerous college group in India. He hopes to give Sacramento College students an idea of the problems facing youth in Asia, of what they are absorbing and why some have become radicals. Wulff also intends to point out the similarities between U.S. and Asiatic youth, besides showing what Americans can do to help fellow students in Asia.

Notice!

Last day for filing application for Spring semester student teaching is November 30.

Marketing Club To Hold Party Tonight

Marketing Club will hold a party tonight in the Clunie Club House at 8:30. It is a Hard Times Party. All students are invited to attend; price is $1.00 per couple.

SSC-SJC JOIN FORCES FOR WSSF DRIVE

World Student Service Fund Drive will open Monday and continue on through Friday, encompassing both Sacramento State College and Sacramento Junior College. The goal for this year's drive has been set at $500, which will be used to aid education in Southeast Asia.

Russell Wulff, who recently visited colleges throughout Asia, will be guest speaker in the auditorium on Tuesday at 12:45. His topic is "You and Asian Youth," and he will be introduced by SSC Student Body President Bill Rase.

Solicitations will be conducted Wednesday during the 10 and 11 o'clock classes and all evening classes. Solicitors include: Etta Batey, Susan Culbard, Mary Farrell, Dixie Mapes, Mary Mooney, Ada Ann Pannatoni, Polo Aguilar, Marian Schleicher, Clarence Bell, and LaVerne Sasaki.

The campus Quad will be the site of a noon rally on Thursday. Bob Wyman is to be master of ceremonies with Gordon Munford and his combo furnishing music. Vocal selections by Bill Rase will complete the program.

Throughout the entire week, booths and contribution barrels will be set up in the main arch and the library. Displays will also be featured along with posters by Pat Hamilton, Nora Scharlow, Pilar Vazquez, and Walter Wolfe.

Students John Smoak and Frances Pendleton will appear on Bill Blackburn's "What's New In Sacramento" program on KROY. They will give Sacramento's listening audience information on WSSF and its accomplishments.

Anne Morrison is chairman of the WSSF Drive, and she is assisted by Al Yelvington and John Smoak, publicity; Norberta Mosher, program; Marian Schleicher, Etta Batey and Susan Culbard, solicitation; and Donna Reagan, Sacramento State College representative. Jerry Dearing is acting as advisor to the committee. The drive is sponsored by International Discussion Group, Newman Club and Campus Y.

Is your reading efficient? Come to the Thursday discussion on "Streamlining Your Reading" in S-7 (Science Wing), Thursday, November 8, at 12:15.

Dr. Brammer will discuss the methods of improving your reading speed and comprehension.

Buzz of the Hornet

By Gloria Wernsman

As this issue of the HORNET is being presented to the guests at the Home Economics Career Day tomorrow, Hello! and welcome to future home economists. Hope your day is enjoyable in every way: educationally and socially.

It's a good idea, these career days. Gives everyone a chance to look at different careers before all the hard work and study.

A word to th wise: deficiency notices were sent out today and next Friday is the last day to drop a course. Take heed! Or mend your ways!

The physical education methods course held a Halloween party last week. All the proper games were played, and the "little children" behaved like grown-up ladies and gentlemen. That's a society item?

Members of the student council traversed out to the new campus yesterday to have pictures taken looking up at the new buildings and sitting not on the fresh green grass, but on the dirty brown dirt!Remember: a campus for you in '52. It is really coming along!

Junior class members are really on the ball. Plans for the Junior Prom, December 7 in the Empire Room, are really rolling. There will be a general class meeting in the very near future. Looks like there is the starting of a rivalry between the Juniors and Seniors besides the annual baseball game at the picnic in the spring. Keep it up, Juniors!

These methods courses seem like the best darn fun, for example, besides the parties, they learn how to sing. There were two of these elementary people in the HORNET office the other day and they were testing each other's ability to guess the notes on the pitch pipe. Such great fun. But, you know, a person can actually play a piece on one of these contraptions: Don Nepstead can give out with a really hot version of "More Than You Know"! And practice teaching seems like an awful lot of fun. Mary Jo is teaching the second grade. She skillfully brought her class in from recess, and a little boy asked her to tie his shoe. Being a pleasant person, she bent to tie the little one's shoe. When she looked up at her class, a whole row of students who felt left out of the affair were busily untieing their shoes. What to do? Look it up in the education books!

'Course they don't have half as much fun as the drama students who will put on "Angel Street" within two weeks! It will undoubtedly be a good show. Make plans to see it November 14 or 15.

Been turning in those Lucky Strike jingles? Send them in!

Interesting fact: the money turned in last year for the WSSF drive went to a youth hostel for refugee students in Bombay. A total of $248.24 was turned in, $200 by SSC. The goal this year is $500. How much will be contributed by SSC students? This is a very worth-while cause. Students in Europe and Asia need our help.

Help! Help! If you have any interesting scripts or ideas for rallies, see Louis Ramos, president of the Buzz Club. Don't be bashful! If you are, mince over to the HORNET office and slip them under the door. You don't even have to leave your name. At any rate, throw modesty to the winds and turn in your ideas. And if you are talented in any way, come in!

Heard almost too late about the Marketing Club party and completely too late about the Anthropological Society meeting. News about future activities is news; news about past doings is not news. Sage comment, what!

WISDOM

By G. McTimmonds

Literary men like Shakespeare and myself know a great deal about the characteristics of man. To improve my already vast knowledge in this field, I recently conducted a critical inspection of college students in and about Sacramento. I approached the problem in a rather psychological way; that is, I indiscriminately stuck everyone I met into a certain category.

The "Thespianic Nincompoop" was my most important classification. These devotees of the stage have, in most instances, taken part in a play; but, on any occasion, they will theatrically relate experiences ranging from illicit relations with producers' wives to tentative contracts for the "new Hamlet". They are usually high-strung, emotional neurotics—with over developed vocal chords—who once played a part and have never stopped doing so, regardless of whether they are on or off the stage.

I had an interesting experience with one of these people the other day. He was trotting along a very crowded sidewalk shouting " 'Ware slops! 'Ware slops!" about every twenty feet. In his hand he carried one of those old containers that used to be found under the bed in old fashioned houses. Every time he cried " 'Ware slops", he gave the container a heave.

"What in the world are you doing?" I ask.

He looked blankly at me for a moment, and I noticed that his eyes didn't focus. He seemed to stare right through me. Finally, he straightened to his full height and smiled down at me disdainfully.

" 'Ware slops!" he squeaked.

At first I thought he was putting on some sort of a campaign stunt in connection with the recent city election; but, after I shook him, his eyes finally focused, and he explained that he was an actor, playing the part of a lackey in an old English drama. I don't know who was producing the play or where it was to be produced—or why, for that matter.

Lest you think I am prejudiced against all actors, let me say that I sincerely believe that some of our students of the drama have true artistic talent; and I know, for a fact, that many of them have artistic haircuts.

ANY NAPA COMMUTERS?

W. H. Spohn, education major at SSC, drives from Napa every day and is looking for commuters. He can be contacted at 12 noon any day of the week across from the 9th Avenue Annex in a blus 1940 Chevrolet with the sun visor.

"Today we will consider a rather interesting phase of the French revolution . . ."

CAMPUS Y OPENS MARRIAGE SERIES

The main event for Campus Y's fall semester program will be discussions on marriage and the family. The first of these discussions will be this Monday night at 8:30 in the YWCA. The series is based on the book "Marriage for Moderns" by Bowman.

The topics for the next four meetings will be courtship, engagement, first year of marriage and its adjustments and the marriage relations and children.

Mr. Frank Hart will open the series Monday evening with the topic "Courtship."

WSSF Praised By India Speaker

Mr. Masani, who spoke to the student body recently on India's problems, greeted the announcement of the World Student Service Fund Drive enthusiastically, saying: "It is quite heartening to know that you students of both Sacramento State and Sacramento Junior Colleges are shortly to have a fund-raising campaign with the purpose of giving aid to students in India. The World Service Fund is performing an admirable job throughout the world.

"I am sure that anything that is done here, on your campus, would all be to the good in helping to bring our two countries nearer.

"I hope that in the course of time it will be possible for students in Sacramento and those in Bombay, or elsewhere in India, in whom you are showing such concrete interest, to forge even more personal links. In this way, we can get to know each other better."

Groups Selected At CSTA Meeting

At a dinner-meeting of the California Student Teachers Association held last Saturday, committees were formed to carry on the semester's activities.

Committees which were organized are: publicity: Don Nepstead and Laura Cate; program, Ed Papoff, Bob Jones, Marsha Haley, Ben Leafe, Marilyn Abbott and Joe Cortez; refreshments: Lee Lowery and membership: Sid Inglis and Henry Serrano was elected to occupy the position of corresponding secretary.

Tentative programs for CSTA are teaching of the handicapped, mock interviews, what to look for in a superintendent, and a Christmas party.

Education majors are urged to join CSTA to learn more of the teaching profession

Women PE Majors Man Football Team

1-2-3 hike! Get your hands on the ball! Fake right, dodge to the left! Tuck that ball! This is being heard around the Women's Gym as the Sacramento State Women PE majors field Sacramento State's first football team, (touch, that is). Miss Charlotte Bergstrom expects great things from her girls, as they are off to a good start in ball handling, passing and kicking techniques.

Under the expert guidance of "Honk" Williams and Jack Kromrey, the girls are learning basic techniques, simple strategy, team play and the finer points of the game. The game has proven to be very popular with girls and women in the east. It has also been found that the average teacher of PE becomes involved with a touch team of small boys at least once in her career.

Due to great enthusiasm over the game, the squad members are usually late for their eleven o'clock class. Under a very recent rule revision, that will now call for a fifteen yard penalty.

Members of the team are Dolores Killam, Marilyn Sposito, May Irvine, Francis Sutfin, and Evelyn Gassaway.

State Cagers Play Hamilton

Coach Warren Conrad's Sacramento State cage squad will get their first test of the season Monday night when they travel to Hamilton Field to meet the Flyers.

The Hornets will be busy during the month of November playing service teams in preparation for the official season opener on the 30th against the University of San Francisco.

The casaba mentor said his entire squad will see action in these games in hope of developing the new members of the squad to the local style of play. The probable starters will be Bob Steen, Frank Perez, or Carl Youngstrom at forward. Al McFayden or Tom Brian at center, and Irv Schwall and Dick Galvin at guard.

Thursday night the Green and Gold will play Mather Field at Mather.

Lawyer To Speak At Newman Club

Cecil Bishop, lawyer, will speak on the Ambassador to the Vatican at the Newman Club meeting Monday evening in the Catholic Center. The meeting will begin at 8:15.

Initiation of new members of Newman Club will be held November 12 in Sacred Heart Hall. There will be a buffet supper served, followed by dancing.

Membership dues must be paid by this time.

And leave the well alone!

STINGERS OPEN CAGE PRACTICE

Led by Coach Aubrey Bates, the Sacramento Hornet Junior Varsity looks forward to a promising and suave season with a schedule of 12 to 14 games to play. The teams scheduled include Placer JC, Yuba JC, JV's from the College of Pacific, Chico, and Cal Aggies, and from three to five of the best town teams, which will round out the schedule.

Those slated to be on the team are Neil Fearn, Del Bandy, Gerald Fassett, Art Zimmerman and John Mitchell from Sacramento JC, Max Hamamoto and Phil Wright from Grant Tech, Jack Clark from Santa Rosa, Roel Gardner from Stockton, Tom McCallister from Chaffey, and a host of hoopsters from Vallejo JC who are Dave Campbell, Harold Harris, Norm Silveria and Cappy Bardakos.

Anyone is eligible to play JV's who is enrolled in the college, and who is not a graduate.

All the JV squad games will be played as preliminaries to the home varsity games, except when the JC also has a scheduled game for that night. Practice began this week and will be held from 4 to 6 on Tuesdays and 7 to 9 on Thursday evenings. The first game will be played November 30
